

My concern and interest in localism has specifically to do with the absence of any vestige of that worthy concept in Eastern North Carolina: Bertie, Martin, Washington, Tyrrell, Dare and Hyde Counties in particular. I and my colleagues believe that Low Power Television service can bring a significant economic impact to this area, and hope to convince the FCC to re-examine the ways in which frequencies and construction permits are granted. These counties are in dire economic straits, and need positive support from those in authority.

Respectfully submitted,
